MAYOR LICASTRO: So I'll call the meeting to order and ask Ms. Cooks to call the roll, please.

MS. COOKS: Mr. Benjamin?

MR. BENJAMIN: Here.

MS. COOKS: Ms. Burke-Jones?

MS. BURKE-JONES: Here.

MS. COOKS: Ms. Hoefling?

MS. HOEFLING: Here.

MS. COOKS: Ms. Huffman?

MS. HUFFMAN: Here.

MS. COOKS: Mr. McDonald?

MR. MCDONALD: Here.

MS. COOKS: Mr. Yonchak?

MR. YONCHAK: Here.

MAYOR LICASTRO: Thank you. Before we begin with the approval of prior meeting minutes, I would like for us to ask for a moment of silence in the tragedy in Uvalde. We need to do something with gun safety. The fact that our children are being slaughtered in schools is unacceptable. So a moment of silence for those victims and all victims of school shootings, please.

MAYOR LICASTRO: Okay. Thanks. So there's three items before the General Assembly that are of major concern: House Bill 563, House Bill 512 and Senate Bill 277. House 563 would remove our right to home rule regarding limiting Airbnb and mandating we do not have Airbnb rentals for shorter than 30 days. It's being discussed at General Assembly. There's pushback. Airbnb lobby is pushing hard to get this passed. They're going to be in recess for the summer, but this will come back on the radar. Again, we passed legislation, this body passed legislation to limit Airbnb rentals to more than 30 days. If the General Assembly does move forward with this, we would lose the right to prohibit that detail. So something to be aware of.

MAYOR LICASTRO: Thank you. So two introductions to make. One is Mr. Yonchak, who was sworn in last week at Village Council. I think he's already an active member. Welcome, Bob.

MR. YONCHAK: Thank you.

MAYOR LICASTRO: And we have Lauri Hartman in the room. She's our new legal intern. She's our new legal intern. We're thrilled to have her. It's her second week. She's already proving her mettle. We have a lot more for her to do. Thank you, Lauri.

This is our fifth meeting this meeting. How many minutes do we have? Never mind, let's hold off on that until next month.

MR. BENJAMIN: We didn't do the Pledge of Allegiance.

MAYOR LICASTRO: Do we want to try to approve minutes? It's up to you, not me.

MR. BENJAMIN: I'd be in favor of waiting.

MAYOR LICASTRO: Okay. Thanks. So there's three items before the General Assembly that are of major concern: House Bill 563, House Bill 512 and Senate Bill 277. House 563 would remove our right to home rule regarding limiting Airbnb and mandating we do not have Airbnb rentals for shorter than 30 days. It's being discussed at General Assembly. There's pushback. Airbnb lobby is pushing hard to get this passed. They're going to be in recess for the summer, but this will come back on the radar. Again, we passed legislation, this body passed legislation to limit Airbnb rentals to more than 30 days. If the General Assembly does move forward with this, we would lose the right to prohibit that detail. So something to be aware of.

House Bill 512 is for police and fire pension. It would increase the employer contribution from 19.5, 26.5 percent. It carries a huge burden. Now, it's been 19 and a half percent for 30 years. We don't doubt it's time to look at that. However, we're asking them to do it more in phases and not hit us with that increase over a five-year period. Again, it
1 would be an unfunded mandate. If the General
2 Assembly thinks police and fire deserve more of a
3 pension, they should help local governments pay
4 for it. Right now that request is falling on
5 deaf ears, although we are trying. We're making
6 some headway with that, stay tuned.
7 I mentioned Senate Bill 277. That bill
8 would eliminate most if not all of the tax we pay
9 in gasoline, which would drive down the cost of 10 gasoline. However, it would gut ODOT's funding.
11 And ODOT, of course, maintains roads, improves
12 roads, plows roads. It doesn't have a whole lot
13 of legs, but that is a dangerous piece of 14 legislation. That's being pennywise and dollar
15 foolish.
16 To knock a quarter or so off a gallon of 17 gas sounds really good to all of us as
18 individuals, but the effect it has on ODOT I
19 think is a long-term problem. We, as Mayors, are 20 pushing back on that big time. So House Bill
21 563, Airbnb; police and fire House Bill 512; and
22 Senate Bill 277. If you have an opinion on
23 these, please contact your legislators.
24 Any questions on those?
25 Okay. The Mayor's report --

| 1 | MS. GOYANES: I do have a question about
| 2 | the Airbnb thing. So we at Bratenahl Place do
| 3 | not have -- do not allow 30-day rentals. Would
| 4 | that affect us because we're condominiums? In
| 5 | our building, you have to have a year, a one-year

|12 | MAYOR LICASTRO: Probably. I don't

MAYOR LICASTRO: Pending litigation.

MS. MEADE: Mediation failed according to public record.

MAYOR LICASTRO: Taxes without access. And I see that the Corning Drive? I see new signs that say way to make that happen as best we can.

MAYOR LICASTRO: Jim goes on leave?

MS. MEADE: I see that if something -- if initiative fails, putting it back on again and again might not be the wisest thing to do.

MAYOR LICASTRO: We can put it back on indefinite. We can put it on in May of '23, we can put it on in November of '23, if it doesn't pass in '22.

MS. MEADE: Can you give an update on the service center? I see new signs that say taxes without access. And I see that the mediation failed according to public record.

MAYOR LICASTRO: I will not comment on pending litigation.

MS. MEADE: If the tax levies fails, you would be willing to go back at a levy failed, you would be willing to go back at

MAYOR LICASTRO: That's Sue's story.

MS. MEADE: Yes. Why did Sue resign?

MAYOR LICASTRO: That's Sue's story.

MS. MEADE: I have to direct my questions to you.

MAYOR LICASTRO: I did not ask nor did I want the resignation.

MS. MEADE: Will the center be open once Jim goes on leave?

MAYOR LICASTRO: We're trying to find a way to make that happen as best we can.

MS. MEADE: Can you give an update on the Corning Drive? I see new signs that say taxes without access. And I see that the mediation failed according to public record.

MAYOR LICASTRO: I will not comment on pending litigation.

MAYOR LICASTRO: Everything I have is in public records.

MS. MEADE: That was it.

MAYOR LICASTRO: Ms. Goyanes.

MS. GOYANES: When you say issue a note, does that come back to the taxpayers?

MR. BENJAMIN: No. The Village issues the debt, so the Village would have to have the capacity to pay for that debt either -- usually comes out of the general fund.

MR. BENCAMIN: What most communities do at that point is issue a long-term note for a minimum of 20 years and you pay down the debt over the period of 20 years.

MS. GOYANES: General fund.

MS. GOYANES: I get the feeling this thing is not going to pass.

MS. MEADE: If the tax levies fails, you have two more opportunities to put it back on the ballot?

MAYOR LICASTRO: We can put it back on the ballot indefinitely. We can put it on in May of '23, we can put it on in November of '23, if it doesn't pass in '22.

MS. MEADE: So there are three tries, but you're saying you can put it on every time there's an election, right?

MAYOR LICASTRO: Of course, is funded by the taxpayers.

MAYOR LICASTRO: So the general fund, of course, is funded by the taxpayers.

MS. MEADE: It will come out of the general fund?

MS. MEADE: I don't know.

MAYOR LICASTRO: I don't know.

MAYOR LICASTRO: How do we pay for the service center?

MS. MEADE: I asked for a public records request for documents regarding the Council vacancy post. I've only received one. Are there any others?

Diana, you're saying no. There are.

MS. MEADE: Those are?

MS. MEADE: I just remember in the past.

MAYOR LICASTRO: I think you've mentioned that if something -- if a levy failed, you would be willing to go back at the next election cycle and ask the voters again.
So I was just curious.

MAYOR LICASTRO: In light of the note, which is what your question was about. If it failed in November and Council had the desire to put it back on the ballot, they can put it on in May. And if it passed then, it would deal with the payoff of the note. Beyond that, we have to talk to bond counsel about options with the note.

That's why we have to meet with them in June.

MS. GOYANES: Why wasn't this discussed in the last five years when you knew that this was due next year?

MR. BENJAMIN: It's not uncommon. I can say it's not uncommon for most cities when they initially issue debt, because interest rate had been so historically low, especially in the last few years. It's not unusual to just roll over that debt. Most cities take the five years and then issue long-term debt with whatever is left to go over 20 years.

MS. GOYANES: So that's normal.

MR. BENJAMIN: That is a normal method to fund major, major development projects of construction.

MAYOR LICASTRO: We've been talking about our facilities for 20 years. In my opinion, we figure it out now. Mr. Orel.

MR. OREL: That opens up a question I was curious about. Cuyahoga County is losing population. What happens if property values go down? If the bond passes and property values go down, what happens then? Does anything happen? MAYOR LICASTRO: Property taxes are very stable. They bring in no more or less than they do the first year of collection. So we would have the money up front and the money is then paid back over a 30-year period.

MR. OREL: Because Cuyahoga County a few years ago or more than a few years ago, prices actually did go down.

MAYOR LICASTRO: Yeah, but the way property tax is structured, as I mentioned, it brings in no more or less than it does the first year of passage. A bond issue like that we get the money up front and it's paid back over a 30-year period.

MR. OREL: So it's not an issue.

MAYOR LICASTRO: Not as I understand it.

But we're meeting with bond counsel. We're going to be asking all those questions, but I'm pretty certain about that one.

House Bill 917 adjusted the effective rate of millage to affect accrual or loss of valuation, so that's in place to protect us. As a statutory community, we're ruled by 917. Some communities are not. So if the tax -- if their valuation goes up, residents pay more in taxes. If they go down, they pay less. It's not how Bratenahl is structured.

MR. OREL: Okay.

MAYOR LICASTRO: All right. I need a motion to go back into executive session to talk about employee compensation.

MR. McDONALD: So move.

MR. BENJAMIN: Second.

I would ask if Council is in agreement to make the following motion that the Council hereby directs the Village Solicitor to draft the settlement agreement and release of all claims between the Village and Susan Capello as follows:
